A maze of the finest jarrah runs through the 6000sq m of living space of the property, which was built from Spanish slate tiles and Donnybrook stone.

Underfloor central heating keeps the chill out, but there are fireplaces in six rooms just in case.

For indoor fitness fanatics, there's a 13m heated indoor swimming pool, sauna, spa and gymnasium. For those who want to stretch their legs outside, there are four wilderness walking tracks on the property. New tennis courts, football oval, cricket pitch (and nets), canoeing and mountain bikes are available for the more agile sporting guests. Expansion plans include developing a nine-hole golf course and a big children's play area.

After all the exercise, there's a 20-seat home theatre room (with Foxtel).

From the security-controlled entry, a 2.5km sealed driveway meanders uphill past surrounding national parks, nature reserves, lush meadows and tranquil lakes and lagoons. Rich bird life and wildlife abound, including wedge-tailed eagles and white-bellied sea eagles, ospreys, kangaroos, bandicoots and Maitraya's resident emu. In spring, the property is ablaze with wildflowers.

"It's a property that will weather time in a place for all seasons," says Jan Brandli, Maitraya's marketing manager.

"The owners want to take the property to a new level by attracting the business and corporate sector and international travel market, as well as celebrities and dignitaries.

"It's a very special place for reunions, special occasions and family holidays."

Maitraya, with its self-sufficient and energy-friendly functions, is simply unforgettable. It doesn't come much better than this.
